

Descendants of Robert Wood

Generation 1

1. ROBERT¹ WOOD was born in 1787 in Peebleshire, Scotland. He died on 09 Sep 1867 in Lombardy, Ontario. He married (1) JENNY BROWN. He married (2) MARY MAHON. She was born about 1810.

Notes for Robert Wood:

There are two versions of Robert Woods story. The first by JOHN ALBIN WOOD is as follows:

Robert Wood came from Perthshire, Scotland on one of the Baltic ships in 1815. He settled on a piece of land at Wayside, in Drummond township, on the way to Carleton Place. He was a school teacher and we believe he assisted in some of the survey work in the area. Robert Wood is mentioned in the book, A Pioneer History of Lanark County, Jean McGill.

We are told he was married to a Miss Brown also from Scotland who came with their two little boys to Canada in 1815. But his wife died in Montreal leaving him and his two boys to come ahead to Concession III, lot #7 of Drummond township to start a new life in Canada. He did marry late in life and had one child who later became a Mrs. George Bone of the Haliburton area. These men and their wives and families are in the Union Cemetery at Lombardy, Ontario.

An extract of the second source, ELIZABETH WOOD DODDS, reads:

"Robert Wood was born in the early seventeen eighties in Peebleshire on the Scottish border. He had one sister, Mary, and, I believe two brothers: James and John. Robert Wood married Janet Brown. Their two sons; James, and Robert were very young when Janet developed tuberculosis and died.

Robert Wood settled up his business in his small town in Peebleshire in the year 1815 and set out with his two little sons for Glasgow with the intention of sailing to Australia to join the other members of the family. But there was no ship scheduled for Australia in the near future when he reached Glasgow and he decided to go to Canada instead as the sailing ship "Baltic" was about ready to embark. A large number of Scottish families were waiting in Glasgow to sail on this same ship.

The crossing took six weeks, which was considered good at that time for sailing ships were dependent on favorable winds.

Robert Wood and his little sons landed in Montreal where he got work at shipbuilding and married Mary Mahon. But everyone was interested in getting land and in the summer of 1816 Robert Wood set out by water and land to Brockville, and from there to what is now known as Perth, a military settlement at that time."

His headstone is inscribed " WOOD / Robert / 1787-1867 / his wife / Jenny Brown / predeceased / natives of Perthshire / Pioneered to Canada 1815 / their son / James 1810-1873 / his wife / Sarah Ann Tweedy / 1806-1893 / native of Peebleshire". The headstone also has the saying "Behold, all you who pass by / As you are now, so once was I / As I am, so you too, shall be / Therefore prepare to follow me"

The headstone reference suggests that Jenny made it to Canada and is buried at Lombardy with Robert. The Baltic Merchant passenger list also adds further questions about Mrs. Wood's correct name.

The ship Baltic Merchant, under Captain Jeffreys, sailed from Greenock July 14th 1815, and arrived at Quebec September 4th 1815 with 194 passengers. The passenger list shows a Robert Wood, aged 33, with a family of five originating in Inverleithen, Peebleshire. There is a list of a family of 5 with wife Helen (Scott) (30) and three boys, John (9), James (7) and Robert (5).

This does not completely agree with the 1817 census data of Drummond Township which lists "WOOD, Robert: Ellen, James, Robert, Margaret." It would be a very big coincidence if there were two Wood families with similarly named children arriving on the same ship.

Generation 1 (con't)

Robert appears in Drummond census reports in 1821 and 1822 with a wife, two sons and a daughter. Land records indicate that Robert took up land in Elmsley Township in 1835.

The date of Jenny's death is not known. If the Wood tombstone is correct in that Jenny is buried at Lombardy Union Cemetery then she lived into the late 1830's which is when the Bowen family donated the land for the cemetery. Robert (70) is shown in the 1852 census with his second (?) wife Mary (42).

Notes for Sarah Ann Tweedy:

Sarah Ann Tweedy had come to Canada as an orphan in 1833 with several uncles, aunts and cousins - all Tweedys. Her youngest brother, James, came later with their aunt, Mrs. Doherty, and her husband. Sara Ann made her home with her uncle, Charles Tweedy, and his family, who had settled in Leeds County near Lombardy. The Anglican Church in Lombardy was built on their farm. The Wood family was Presbyterian, but since there was no church of that denomination at Lombardy, they attended the Anglican Church and there they met the Tweedys. Sarah Ann Tweedy lived to be 87 years of age and was known as a mid-wife in that area.

The Tweedies were from Perthshire, Scotland. The Tweedy family in Peebleshire was originally from Stenhouse in Lanarkshire. These two shires border each other. The origins of the family may be from Finlay de Twedyn del Comte de Lanark who in the year 1296 swore fealty to Edward the First of England. His son Rodger settled in Drumelzur on the Tweed near the town of Peebles. Hence the name.

Notes for James Wood:

In the 1880s James set up a brickmaking works by Bass Lake. He himself built a number of brick buildings, which are still in use. The first, in 1882, was a farmhouse for himself and his wife Ann Wills, built as soon as the road (now the Old Kingston Road) was opened. Previously, he and his family had lived on the shore of the Rideau Lake, the lake being the only practical highway. Other of James Wood's brick buildings included the Rideau Antiques farmhouse - built as a home for Jack Joynt - and the Brethren gospel meeting hall next to the Wood farm. (James and Robert Wood, originally Methodist, were among the earliest adherents of the Brethren when this worship was introduced in South Elmsley in the 1880's.) James' son George later acquired the farm. The spot from which James Wood extracted the brick clay is a pond now, still part of the Wood property, and the house James built is still the family home. James Wood sold parts of his farm as cottage lots during the 1890's and early 1900's, for Rideau Lake lots were in much demand for summer homes.

Grace Wood was 16 when she graduated from high school and entered the Ottawa Normal School. It was still traditional for young women to go into either nursing or teaching, and Grace preferred the one-year teaching course to the three-year nursing program. She did not attend at the stone building on Elgin Street frequented by earlier (and later) relatives, for that was assigned to wartime use. Instead, Grace's class used the Muchmore School. On completing her course in 1946 Grace began teaching in Smiths Falls, boarding there during the week and being collected by her father in his 1928 Dodge for weekends at home on the farm. She took summer courses in Ottawa and Toronto for professional improvement.

In July, 1953, Isobel married Earl Covell.

per Nancy Kenyon (written2002)

The third of Amy and George Wood's children, Jim, took over the family dairy farm and married Layne Godard of Wickham, New Brunswick, a schoolteacher whom he met at bible camp at Parry Sound. Jim and Layne had four children - Laurence, Darlene, George and Norman. In 1988, before the young family had grown up, Jim died of cancer leaving Layne to carry on the responsibilities. Jim is buried in the Rideau Ferry Cemetery, where his parents were also buried. Layne discontinued farming and held a traditional farm auction of the equipment in April 1990. Some of the farm outbuildings have been taken down but the farmhouse is still a lively family centre and Darlene's horse still enjoys the use of the barn and barnyard.
